DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-6, 9-16, 19, 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lin US 6082757.
3. Regarding claims 1, 6, and 16 Lin discloses a base 11, an accessory support 12 including a plurality of accessory stations 122, 129 wherein an accessory support 12 collapsibly attachés to said base 11 for movement of said accessory support 12 from a collapsed to an operational position.
4. Regarding claim 2, Lin discloses base 11 includes first and second generally opposed members 11, 101.
5. Regarding claim 3, Lin discloses the base 11 includes at least one transverse member 121 connected to the first and second members.
6. Regarding claim 4, Lin discloses at least one part of the transverse member 121 includes a brace (see element connecting 121 to 11) for securing said base 11.
7. Regarding claim 5, Lin discloses the base 11 comprises a generally rectangular frame wherein first and second generally opposed members 11, 101 extend in a direction generally transverse to a longitudinal axis of the accessory support , and first and second transverse members extend in a direction generally perpendicular to the first and second members (see fig 1).

8. Regarding claim 9, Lin discloses the accessory support 12 attaches to the base via at least one hinge (at intersection of elements 141).

9. Regarding claim 10, Lin discloses the first and second members extend beyond a point of intersection 141 of said accessory support with said base.

10. Regarding claims 11 and 19, Lin discloses at least one of said accessory stations includes a fishing rod receptacle 122, 132.

11. Regarding claim 12, Lin discloses the fishing rod receptacle includes an aperture 132 for receiving a fishing rod handle; a support region for supporting a shaft 122, and a channel (existing between elements 122 and 132).

12. Regarding claim 13, Lin discloses the fishing rod receptacle 122, 132 adjustably attaches to the transverse support 12 via a fastener 112 extending through the channel.

13. Regarding claims 14 and 20, Lin discloses the fastener is a bolt 112 and the transverse support 12 includes at least one aperture for receiving said bolt 112 (see figure 4).

14. Regarding claim 15, since Lin discloses that the rod receptacle 122 attaches to the transverse support 12 via a bolt, this configuration and method of attachment would inherently allow for multiple axis of adjustability for the receptacle.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

15. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

16. Claims 7, 8, 17, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lin in view of Watford et al. US 6341443.

17. Regarding claims 7, 8, 17, and 18, Lin does not disclose that the first and second support and transverse support are adjustable in length.

18. Watford et al. disclose a rod support in which the member is both transverse and the support member 30 is adjustable in length (col 3, lines 40-49).

19. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to apply the teaching of Watford et al. of an adjustable length transverse support member to the invention of Lin in order to adjust the height of the structure according to the height of the user, or to accommodate different sizes of rods.

Conclusion

20. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Ramsey US6550791; Treppedi et al. US6474097; Vela US6684555; Gaines US6698830; Howley US6729066; Mooers US5904281; Womac
